

Dear Hans Petter Gytfeldt Aasen,

My name is Marta Ribas and I am in charge of ticket bookings at the Gran Teatre del Liceu.

I am writing to you because as a lover of Wagnerian music, I have the great pleasure of informing you that to coincide with the celebration of the Wagner birth bicentenary, Barcelona, and specifically the Gran Teatre del Liceu, will be exclusively hosting one of the most sought-after phenomena on the world scene: The Bayreuth Festival, with the orchestra, the choir and the soloists that will play in August in The Bayreuth Festival.

As you will know, it is very rare for this festival to travel, and now, between 1 and 6 September 2012, it will be offering in concert-version two performances of Der fliegende Holländer, two performances of Lohengrin and one performance of Tristan und Isolde. The conductor for the first two will be Sebastian Weigle, while the third will be conducted by Peter Schneider.

We would like to share this unique occasion with you and your association so that this time, without any long waiting lists, you can take the opportunity to get to know both the Gran Teatre del Liceu and Barcelona. The Liceu is an institution with over 160 years' experience and one of the biggest and most spectacular theatres in Europe. Barcelona is known as the benchmark Mediterranean and cosmopolitan city.

We hope to see you on this very special occasion. Tickets are now on sale at www.liceubarcelona.cat. If you would like to make group bookings or you require further information, please contact us on + 34 93 485 99 13 or by mribas@liceubarcelona.cat. We can also provide you with information or answer any queries you might have regarding nearby accommodation, places of interest, and so on.

Thank you for your interest. We look forward to hearing from you.

Warm regards,

Marta Ribas
